

Special Lectures

Since 2010, the University has invited guests from all over the world to give special lectures for freshmen.

Lecturer: Eloïc Peyrache, Associate Dean, École des hautes études commerciales de Paris
Date: April 2, 2017
Title: What's your Dream?

Lecturer	Date	Title
Bruce Miller, Ambassador of Australia to Japan	April 2, 2016	The Future of Australia–Japan Relations and the Power of Youth
Craig Calhoun, Director and President, The London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE)	April 2, 2015	Knowledge as a Public Good: The Role of Universities
Oh Yeon-Cheon, President, Seoul National University	April 2, 2013	Embracing new challenges with a creativity full of imagination, balancing self-realization with a sense of community
Mark Damazer, Master of St Peter's College, University of Oxford	April 2, 2012	Knowledge—A Global Commodity or a Human Need?
Professor Malcolm Grant, President and Provost, University College London	April 1, 2011	UCL and Japan
Bernard Ramanantsoa, Dean, HEC Paris	April 1, 2010	Citoyens du monde (“Global Citizenship”)

President Koichi Tadenuma attended the 3rd meeting of the Alliance of Like-Minded Universities at Singapore Management University, December 11–12, 2016

The alliance was aimed at strengthening exchange and collaboration among “like-minded” universities having a strong faculty in business management and offering highly competitive MBA courses. Further, all these universities have been highly appreciated for their excellence in a wide range of research and educational areas as social sciences-focused universities. The alliance has been joined by universities having academic and student exchange agreements with Hitotsubashi University, such as Singapore Management University (SMU), Copenhagen Business School (CBS), and the University of St. Gallen.

Hitotsubashi University and Renmin University of China were invited as observer universities for this meeting, which discussed directions for strengthening exchange and collaboration from various perspectives. At the beginning of the meeting, President Tadenuma, as the first attendee, was invited to make a presentation to introduce Hitotsubashi University to the Alliance.

The Alliance decided to add Hitotsubashi University and Renmin University of China as official members and agreed to further strengthen global institutional collaboration under the new name Societal Impact and Global Management Alliance (SIGMA).

The Meeting held lively discussions and exchanges on perspectives and ideas on strengthening collaboration in research and education. One of the advanced research fields that is commonly attracting member institutions is the issue of health economics and management in the aging society. Further, a wide range of topics were also discussed, including pedagogy, sharing and exchanging of educational resources, possibilities of having joint courses, and strengthening the global alumni network of SIGMA universities, thereby confirming a common direction to strengthen full-blown multilateral and international university exchanges and collaboration.

The following are the members of the Alliance of Like-Minded Universities (as of December 11–12, 2016): Singapore Management University*, University of St. Gallen (Switzerland), Copenhagen Business School (Denmark), Vienna University of Economics and Business (Austria), Paris Dauphine University (France), ES-ADE Business School (Spain), Getulio Vargas Foundation (Brazil). Observers: Renmin University of China*, Hitotsubashi University. (* signifies Universities with student exchange agreements with Hitotsubashi University)

Our President Prof. Tadenuma with SMU President Prof. Meyer

