

Utilizing the knowledge of overseas benchmark universities to strengthen international competitiveness

Examples of Reflecting the Outcomes of the International Advisory Board

The Hitotsubashi International Advisory Board, which consists of current or former presidents of our benchmark universities*, was held in January 2023 and discussed the strengthen of our research capabilities

*London School of Economics, Singapore Management University, and Vienna University of Economics and Business

Improve research environment for young researchers

To attract young researchers, creating an environment that allows more time for research and providing mentoring assignments are more important than paying high salaries

Reflect in HIAS Bridges Next Project

Create a new internal grant

Importance of providing seed money to encourage interdisciplinary research

Establish a new system to support the preparation of international joint research to be conducted overseas with overseas research groups

Example of Reflecting a Successful Initiative of a Benchmark University

The establishment of the SDS program at Hitotsubashi University is inspired by the School of Information Systems at Singapore Management University by sharing best practices in social science universities in promoting humanities and science co-creation and increasing external funding